2018

Tornaveus is a group of traditional polyphonic music, composed by researchers in oral-tradition music, who have worked all over the Catalan speaking territories. They have transferred into their shows the songs, polyphonic formulas and ways of singing learned from their field work investigations.

The voices in Tornaveus - of Jaume Ayats, Heura Gaya, Anaís Falcó, Iris Gayete and Ester G. Llop - got together for the first time by the end of 2011. Since then, they have joined festivals and concerts all over Catalonia, Valencian Country, Northern Catalonia, Occitanie, the Basque Country and Sardinia. Now, in 2018, they present their first recording work, "Tornaveus", of recent appearance on the market, and prepare a tour around Catalonia and some concerts in Occitania and Lithuania.

Tornaveus usually takes part in divulgation workshops about traditional music and regularly teaches singing and instruments that play along the voice.

Traditional Catalan Polyphonies

Labor songs, lullabies, frame drum songs, carols, naughty songs, nursery rhymes, and even a tavern song and Easter Stabat Mater. It is a surround sound created exclusively with voices. Vocal music has always been a rich, local tradition among men and women in the north-western Mediterranean region. Tornaveus' first CD is truly awe-inspiring, because of its timbre, its repertoire, and its marked difference. From a church song to a tavern song, it offers a glimpse into the melodies and songs of our home.
